ABOUT THE BUND SUMMIT

Openness, communication, and integration are needed for the economic development of all countries. They are also the major trend of global economic development. In recent years, the global economy has undergone profound changes, and the anti-globalization undercurrent has been surging. In the face of a complicated and ever-changing international situation, China has been unwaveringly adhering to the policy direction of opening-up and sharing benefits with the whole world.

A high level of openness is necessary for promoting the high-quality development of China's economy. Since last year, China has launched a series of major initiatives to further open up its financial sector, which has demonstrated the country's determination to carry forward with opening-up and injected momentum into its efforts to build a more effective and dynamic global financial system, promote a more open world economy and achieve sustainable and steady growth of the global economy.

To advance the opening of the financial sector, speed up the process of developing Shanghai into an international financial center, and promote the integration and cooperation between China and the rest of the world, China Finance 40 Forum (CF40) and Huangpu District Government along with partner institutions decided to launch the Bund Summit in Oct 2019. A non-governmental professional conference featuring global participation, the Summit invites senior policymakers, executives of large financial institutions, and academic leaders worldwide to the Bund to share their insights on key economic and financial issues, build consensus on matters of mutual concern, promote cooperation, and provide high-quality intellectual support for the building of an open world economy.

The Organizing Committee of the Summit is chaired by Mr. Chen Yuan, Vice Chairman of the 12th National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference and Chairman of CF40 Executive Council. The Executive Chairman of the Committee is Mr. Tu Guangshao, Chairman of the Executive Council of Shanghai Finance Institute.

The inaugural Bund Summit focuses on issues including China's financial opening, Fintech, and wealth management. It will convene in Shanghai on October 27-29, 2019.
